EXECUTIVE BOARD OF SCOUTS IN SESSION AT DOYLESTOWN

Authorize Purchase of Plans and Drawings for Proposed Swimming Pool

SCOUT DINNER JAN. 24TH

Finance Committee Reports $13,066 Received During The Campaign

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 17.—The executive board of Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America, met at the Doylestown Inn, last evening, for their regular meeting, which was held in conjunction with a dinner. At that time the board was authorized to purchase plans and drawings for the proposed 30x75 foot swimming pool at Camp Ockanickon.

The blessing was asked by William Burgess, Jr., Morrisville, county Scout Commissioner, in the absence of the Rev. Alexander B. Davidson, who is ill. Walter W. Pitzonka, Bristol, the vice-president, occupied the chair, the Hon. Calvin S. Boyer being unable to attend, due to illness.

It was decided to hold the annual Scouters' banquet at Doylestown, on Friday, January 24th, at which time Dr. H. W. Hurt, of the national council of Boy Scouts, will be the guest speaker. Dr. Hurt has been with the national council for over 25 years, and has been editor of the Scout handbook since it was first published.

A resolution was framed by Messrs. Thomas Ross, Doylestown, and William Burgess, Jr., to be sent to the family of the late Samuel K. Faust, Hulmeville, who was chairman of the council's training committee, and a member of the executive board. The resolution cites the record of service on the part of Mr. Faust in the Bucks County Council, and expresses heartfelt regret of the board in his passing.

Edmund H. Lovett, Yardley, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers for 1941: Walter W. Pitzonka, Bristol, president; Frank H. Russell, Newtown, C. A. G. Pease, of Quakertown, and H. A. Pettit, Sr., Bristol vice-president; J. P. Weiss, Doylestown, secretary.

The woman, mother of nine children, was holding her six-month-old infant in front of her home in California, a nearby village, while Snyder, a junk dealer, was maneuvering a tow truck.

Suddenly Mrs. Snyder slipped on ice and fell. Instead of looking after her own safety first, she pushed the baby aside as a rear wheel passed over her right leg. She died three hours later when a blood clot reached her heart.

Heavy Aerial Attacks Made On Germany

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A series of strong aerial night attacks on important war objectives in Germany, including a seven-hour raid on the communications center at Mannheim, was announced by the Air Ministry today.

Wave after wave of British bombers roared over the Mannheim area, unloading tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs. In addition to the railway lines, a large factory also was subjected to heavy bombing.

One of the largest aniline dye factories in Germany, located at Ludwigshafen, was set afire by another raiding party of British bombers. The fires were visible half an hour after the first attack was launched.

Bombs also were dropped on the railway yard of an important port along the bank on the Rhine River. A particularly violent explosion was observed at Neckerstadt. Direct hits were scored on the Speyer aircraft factory and buildings.

MORRISVILLE SENIORS TAKING SCHOOL CENSUS

COMPLAINTS ON BLDG.

MORRISVILLE, Dec. 17.—If it is found that there are enough children between the ages of one and six in the Capitol View area to warrant the cost, a new school building may be erected. Action of the School Board all depends upon the outcome of a pre-school census now being conducted by the senior class of the High School.

COURIER GIFT SELECTOR

Just a few of the many items suggested by visits to merchandising establishments in Bristol. Thousands of gifts have been placed on display in the windows, on shelves, and in display cases of stores locally, making shopping in Bristol a distinct pleasure. "Do your Christmas Shopping in Bristol" is the 1940 holiday slogan.

By Gift Selector

The days are dwindling. And it doesn't seem necessary to explain which days I mean—the shopping days that remain until Christmas. There are just six of them, one short week.

But with the greatly increased crowds that merchants have been reporting for the past two weeks, Bristolans and the residents of nearby communities, should have their tasks fairly well completed by now.

But if the case should be otherwise, and some haven't yet made much inroad on that holiday list, Bristol merchants are ready to "deliver the goods."

BENSALEM HIGH CLASS OF 1943 GUESTS OF CHURCH

Rev. G. G. Dilworth Urges Students to Make "Halos" Brighter As Years Pass

A CHRISTMAS PARTY

EDDINGTON, Dec. 17.—Members of the sophomore class of Bensalem Township high school, to the number of 46, were guests of the Eddington Presbyterian Church at a Christmas party last evening. The meeting was the second of a series of four, one for each of the high school classes, arranged by the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, pastor of the Eddington Church and the late Samuel K. Faust, who, at the time of his death on November 23rd, was the superintendent of the Bensalem Township schools.

The class assembled in the church house for an informal period. The Christmas story, illustrated by pictures and song, was told by Mr. Sargis, who urged upon his young listeners the value of Christian discipline. Recorded carols were played as the Nativity story was told.

Isaac S. H. Jones, an elder in Eddington Church, in bringing greetings commented on the important part that the Christian Church took in the founding of the Republic, and asserted that the church and school are both vital to a continuance of our national life. He urged the members of the class of 1943 to take their place in the life of the church of their choice.

Each person present received a Christmas stocking, filled with useful and interesting gifts.

Appearing upon a ruler found within the stocking were three Bible verses: "God Is Love"; "Prayer Changes Things"; and "Jesus Never Fails." A

MOTHER, SONS REUNITED; SEPARATED 35 YEARS

Happy Reunion Takes Place At the Bonnema Home In South Langhorne

SEARCH HEART-RENDING

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Dec. 17.—"The happiest Christmas season in 35 years."

This is how Mrs. Richard Bonnema, of Durham Road, expresses her feelings, for this month brought news to Mrs. Bonnema and her aged mother, Mrs. Jennie Rinkima, of Clifton, N. J., that two members of the family, sons of Mrs. Rinkima, missing for 35 years, were alive and well, and likewise saw the family reunited.

It was a heart-welling sight when Mrs. Rinkima was clasped in the arms of her boys, George and Frank, at the Bonnema home here several days ago, with her other two sons and their families present to share in the happiness.

So certain was Mrs. Rinkima that her two boys, missing since they were eight and two years of age, were lost to her forever, or possibly dead, that the joyful news had to be broken to her gradually. When first asked if she would like to see "George and Frank" again, she shook her head negatively, sadly replying that there was no use hoping any more. At the time the question was put to her, some of the family who had been surprised and shocked a few days previous to learn there was possibility of locating the two now grown to manhood, were almost certain they were on the right trail. But realizing the frailty of the aged mother, now 77 years of age and quite deaf, they talked of the possibility only occasionally, until they felt the news could safely be presented.

DRIVING HABITS

Why are drivers whose passengers are not related to them more likely to speed than are drivers who have their own folk along? The answer is anybody's guess. Perhaps wifely back-seat admonition is a factor. Maybe desire to show off is stronger when strangers are along.
The observation is one of many from a study by the Yale University Institute of Human Relations, of the habits of automobile operators. Here are others:

Younger persons with cars they do not own drive faster than do car owners.

New vehicles are in more accidents than are older ones. But against this is set the fact that newer cars travel more miles yearly.

Drivers on long trips travel faster than those on short trips.

Drivers traveling faster than 50 miles an hour are involved in more accidents and commit more traffic violations than those traveling 35 to 45 miles an hour.

From the above, it may be concluded that those who get new cars and start on long trips should remember statistics and let up on the accelerator.

SURPRISE

Surprised were the football huskies and fans of America when Stanford called Nebraska to play in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on New Year's Day. It will be the first time that the champion of the Big Six Conference, or any other member of the conference, has figured in the yearly contest.

The Rose Bowl this year has several interesting angles. Competing are two of the most popular and competent directors, Al Masters and Biggie Jones. A new note in football is the lifting of the ban of Big Six on post-season games, thus making it possible for Nebraska to go to the Rose Bowl. Stanford has finished the season unbeaten and untied. Nebraska has a brilliant record of victories and one defeat.

The Rose Bowl will not only have its first look at a member of the Big Six, but also will be assured that millions of fans who cannot jump to California will listen in and wait eagerly to learn what happens.

THOSE CATERPILLARS

Along about the closing days of October the nation was regaled with the news that caterpillars without stripes were crawling through what was left of garden spots. And certain persons who declared they knew their caterpillars were positive that the absence of stripes meant that the populace was in for a short and mild winter.

And look what the country has received in these early days of December! What might have happened had caterpillars worn stripes makes one shudder to contemplate.

What many persons want to know is what happened to the caterpillars and how they mistakenly came to be crawling about with no stripes down their backs? Were they kidding the weather prognosticators? Seemingly a caterpillar without stripes right now is just a plain liar.

America will see that the first youth inducted into the draft army—a plumber's helper—doesn't forget his tools.

It would be interesting to know what the dollar a day Army com-script thinks working alongside those dollar-and-a-half an hour camp construction employees.

gift for someone else, but for myself.
What with the Christmas parties and other events of the holidays in the offing, forms will be in demand. And Corn's has on display a gown of white faux, with an over-all design in silver thread. It has an off-the-shoulder effect, with what might be called "apologies" for puffed sleeves, so tiny and dainty are they. The décolletage is set off by narrow band of red velvet ribbon, with bows at the shoulders, and red velvet boutonniere at the front.
Two tiny straps give "security" at the shoulders.

A combination lock is being given free by Britton's, Pond and Washington streets, to each individual who orders a bicycle at this Christmas season.
Britton sells Schwinn bicycles with a life-time guarantee. The sturdy frame and pleasing lines will delight any girl or boy. And the colors offer a wide range of selection.

Individuals seeking gifts for men on their shopping list, must keep Singer's Mill street men's outfitters, in mind.
A fine set of white wool, to be purchased at this establishment, consists of a scarf with fringe, and a pair of gloves. The two pieces are soft, light, yet very warm. If gloves of a darker hue are desired, Singer's have splendid ones, fine for automobile driving, in black or brown leather, with wool lining.

The Great Game of Politics

was in order not to have their remarks construed as an attack on labor. The fact is, however, that there have been no instances and no indications that industry and capital are not fully co-operating; not one case in which they can be shown to have pulled back. The pulling back is being done by organized labor, but the Defense Commissioners cannot afford to say that flatly. The fact is, everybody says that in private—including members of the commission—but they are afraid for political or personal or other reasons to say so publicly. Although the evidence is clear, as soon as anyone points to labor as unwilling to co-operate he is at once charged with being anti-labor, or anti-Administration, or with putting "property rights above human rights," or being willing to "draft men but not dollars," or of being guilty of some other equally degraded thing.

YET if Mr. Hillman's protest on behalf of organized labor against the War Department contract, cleared by Mr. Knudsen and awarded to the Ford Motor Company, is not pulling back, then words have no meaning. The contention is that the Ford Company has not fully complied with the NLRB rulings and hence should not be given any defense work. It was thought that this question had already been settled, but Mr. Hill-man's protest dispels that hope.
It makes it clear that, until compelled by public sentiment or Presidential insistence, or both, the labor leaders do not propose to abate in the least the rigidity of their position.

ARGUMENTS that it is not the business of the Defense Commission or the War Department to enforce the labor laws, and that to hold up contracts until the courts have determined whether a firm is fair or unfair would be to delay and disrupt the defense program, apparently have no effect upon the organized-labor leaders. Nor is it surprising when the attitude of the President is considered. Although it has been plain from the start that unless the New Deal laws were relaxed to some extent neither speed nor efficiency could be achieved, he publicly insisted that none of "our social gains" of the last seven years must be lost and that there was no reason to modify any of the legislation now on the books.

A SIMILAR position was taken recently by Mrs. Roosevelt in her column when she opposed any relaxing of the Walsh-Healy Act, which is one obstacle to full production. In effect, she said that she saw no reason why labor should be called on to make sacrifices until industrial executives had reduced their salaries. With White House support such as this, it is not surprising that labor protests and refuses to yield an inch.

Perhaps when the President reads what Mr. Knudsen and Mr. Nelson have said, considers the Hillman protest and its effect, and appreciates how far back the program is, he may alter his view. It is to be hoped so. At any rate, the expectation is that some sort of reorganization of the defense setup is imminent and inevitable. Also it may be useful to say that while Mr. Knudsen and Mr. Nelson painted a rather grim picture of the soggy state of our defense effort, they could have made it grimmer still and yet kept well within the truth.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

"The cocktail shaker that this in-terloper had dared to order up on her own initiative, countering her hostess's order, with ice and glasses, stood on a table nearby.
Jean needed a drink for fortification as never before had she needed it.
But Gaby was ahead of her even here with: "Help yourself, Jean, but for me I ne-vaire touch the cocktails." Turning to Walter, she added gently: "In France, it is not —how you call it?—pro-praire for young girls to touch hard lee-quer."

Walter beamed his approval.
Jean drained her glass almost at one gulp. Manhattans. Potent. Oh, to hit Gaby one crack with the crystal goblet!

"The French," averred Walter, albeit he helped himself to a good stiff drink, "are so much more sensible in these matters than us Americans. They practise moderation. We don't. We're a race of young and greedy children."

"But I love children!" The dark eyes, bent indulgently on Walter, mistakenly into a look that might be interpreted: "I love you!"

Jean was enveloped in a sense of utter unreality. It was incredible that this wily foreigner making up to Walter was her own half-sister!
That Gaby being her own mother's daughter had just as good a right as she to be hostess in Rupert's house!

If Walter knew!
Was the same idea turning in Gaby's mind? Jean was miserably aware that it was no reason of family love, or blood-thicker-than-water, that held her back. But personal expediency.

Walter asked: "Why didn't you tell me, Jean, that you were expecting a house guest? And such a charming one, at that!" There was surprised disapproval and admonition in the question.

She stammered: "I thought I mentioned it."
"If you had, I certainly would have included Miss Gabrielle in tonight's engagement. But you will come with us, of course?" He turned to her. "You will not stay alone here?"

"Ah, you are so kind and thoughtful, Meester Mallory. But I am used to my own com-panee. I am used to be solitary. I am not like the Americans who must go, go, go, all the time. I am—what you call it—domestic!"

Domestic, my eye! Jean thought.
"I am not afraid of my own companee, Meester Mallory. My misfortunes, they have taught me to find the resource and the solace in myself. I have learn to enjoy myself alone."

"Which is more than our American women have, you bet!" was his maddeningly annoying answer.
"None the less, I insist you come out to dinner with us tonight. You make her, Jean!"

Gaby smiled lasciviously, displaying beautiful white teeth.
"Your fon-nee pro-vaib it say—two is com-panee, three is the goose!"

Walter flung back his head and

Welfare Work Discussed
By Langhorne Auxiliary

LANGHORNE, Dec. 17.—Welfare work local for veterans in hospitals, and for children of veterans, occupied the attention of American Legion Auxiliary of Jesse W. Soby Post, last evening, when Mrs. Ernest Robinson conducted the meeting in the Memorial House.

In addition plans were completed for the dinner which the Auxiliary will serve the Junior Auxiliary members on Monday evening next; and for attendance at the Bi-County Council session and also an Americanism meeting of the district next month.

Mrs. Frank Cassidy reported on membership to date, and announced that one new member was present last evening, Mrs. Flack.

In her report on activities of the Juniors, Mrs. Joseph Zalot mentioned that the girls have forwarded a Christmas gift to the girl of 10 years whom they "adopted" at Scotland home. Mrs. Zalot will be aided on Monday by the following in serving the Juniors' dinner: Mrs. Gilbert Bonnell, Mrs. James Brant, Mrs. Frank Buckley, Mrs. Frank Cassidy. The Auxiliary has started a flag fund, of which Mrs. William Hart has charge, the same to be used for purchase of a flag for the Junior group.

During the evening donations of canned goods were received for holiday cheer baskets which the Auxiliary will fill, with some also being given to Mrs. George Mather toward her welfare work in the community. Mrs. Mather was present last evening, and in briefly telling of her activities, mentioned that she has been doing welfare work for the past 20 years, and for about 12 years acting in an official capacity. "This year the demand is not quite so heavy," she informed. She added that frequently the ones in great need are those with large families, where the father is willing to and does work, but makes a very meagre salary. She told the women that baskets of food will be augmented by a gift of clothing for each member of the family, and that toys will also be sent for children in the cases outlined.

Mrs. Harry Heller reported that many labels have been gathered, these to be forwarded to proper parties to be accredited to the Auxiliary. Members provided stamped Christmas cards last evening, the same to be donated to hospitalized veterans so they may have cards to mail home at Christmas time.

It was stated that Langhorne Lions Club will provide a Christmas tree for enjoyment of all organizations, the same to be placed in the Memorial House.

The Bi-County Council meeting was announced for Willow Grove in January; with a district Americanism meeting at Glenside on January 17th, the state president of the Auxiliary being present. Reservations for the dinner to precede the Glenside event are to be given to Mrs. Bonnell by January 10th.

The Philadelphia Naval Hospital, and hospitals at Coatesville, South Mountain, Perry Point, Aspinwall, and O'Teen are to be remembered by various auxiliaries for the holidays.

A card party is planned for January, with Mrs. Buckley and her committee in charge.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Richard A. Hopkins and Miss Elma E. Haefner; after which members exchanged small gifts.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By Howard L. Zepp, Th. M.)

Eternal Spirit, in this moment of devotion we lift our hearts to Thee. But most of today and most of the tomorrows we must live amid the din and confusion of a world of industry. There will be discordant notes; many voices will sound in our ears; strange sights will break in on our vision. Save us from a dual, or even a multiple, personality. We would be Christ-centered in our ambitions and purposes as well as in our ideals and dreams. Amen.

Winky Mannone, known as the hottest trumpeter on New York's "Swing Lane," lost his right arm some years ago.

Most of his profession would have quit right then—and there, but not Winky. He learned how to do the job the hard way, with his left hand. Winky has just made his motion picture debut and will be seen with his own "Swing Lane" band in Paramount's "Rhythm on the River," at the Bristol Theatre.

CUSINS LEADS TEAM TO WIN GAME WITH FRANKLIN A. C. TEAM

Voltz-Texaco Loses Contest
By the Score of 32 to 23

CUSINS IS STAR OF GAME

Palumbo Scores Four Field Goals and Petrick Gets Three

Although he scored but one field goal, Ray Cusins proved his worth to the Franklin A. C. team last night as he led the Franks to a 32-23 victory over the Voltz-Texaco team at the Italian Mutual Aid floor.

Cusins refrained from shooting at the basket but did excellent floor work, especially on the defense. Heretofore, the Franklin team, because of its shortness in stature, had trouble in getting possession of the ball on the rebounds from the backboard, but last night, Cusins did this job and did it well.

On three out of every four occasions, Cusins was underneath his opponents' basket and when shots were missed, he would leap up and grab the sphere to give his club the opportunity to move the ball towards their own basket. He also was in there blocking Voltz's passes as well as intercepting many.

Anthony Palumbo with four field goals and Petrick with three did most of the scoring for the winners. Sagolla and DeLuca also stood out.

If Harry Berry had started to score earlier in the tilt, the game might have been a different story but Berry was off on his shots until the final three minutes when he sunk in four consecutive field goals to make it five for the night.

The defeat dropped the Voltz team in the league standing to a deadlock with the K. of C. for the cellar position.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS BREAK INTO WIN COLUMN

The Knights of Columbus five broke into the win column of the Bristol Basketball League by registering a victory over the Fifth Ward Sporting Club, 40-31, last night on the Italian Mutual Aid floor.

It was principally the work of the chunky "Johnny" Zack who last season played with the Grundy team that accounted for the Knights' triumph. Held to one field goal the first half, Zack went to town in the third period and accounted for six double-deckers and this coupled with goals by Nowalski and Seneca gave the Knights 18 points.

All during this stretch Fifth Ward had trouble in dropping them and the only points registered was a two-point shot by Capucci. The period saw the Knights go into the lead by a margin of four points. This they managed to keep throughout the final period thanks to some brilliant shooting by "Bucky" Bucknum.

The Warders played their best in the first half but were considerably outplayed by the Knights' spurt in the second half of the game. Zack for his night's work had eight double-deckers and a foul for 17 points while Bucknum had a total of twelve points. However, Roberts and Seneca did excellent work in getting the ball away from the Warders and passing to their scoring ace.

It was the third straight defeat for Fifth Ward and the victory enabled the Knights to start a drive to evacuate the cellar which is now shared jointly with the Voltz-Texaco team.

Form "No Foreign War" Committee

New York, Dec. 17—Organization of "The No Foreign War Committee" by three American World War veterans, who pledge themselves to fight any move to involve this country in the present war was announced here today by Verne Marshall, editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette.

Associated with Marshall, chairman of the committee, are O. K. Armstrong, Springfield, Mo., author and lecturer, director of organization, and Robert A. Lancaster of New York, an investment banker, treasurer.

The famous Iowa editor openly declared that his organization will combat the William Allen White Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies which he accused of fostering war spirit in this country.

Warning that the next "steps short of war" contemplated in Washington seem to indicate a move to use the U. S. Navy to convoy British merchant ships, Marshall announced his committee will not only oppose this but any and all measures which violate or evade neutrality "as it exists today."

Since William Allen White is himself an Emporia, Kans., editor, Marshall's announcement in effect brings to the foreground in a tense period of American history a "battle of committees" headed by two of the best-known editors of the country.

In his formal statement announcing the new committee, Marshall said—

"Right here let it be noted, as regards the No Foreign War Committee's attitude toward Britain, we stand pat on the neutrality law as it exists today. The No Foreign War Committee is exactly what its name implies. Its one and only purpose is to keep the United States out of any war not plainly and specifically our own."

Bensalem High Class of 1943 Guests of Church

"Book of Silver" containing Bible verses which included the word "silver" was one gift; and other gifts also found in each stocking were: "Scatter good" calendar; candy cane; lapel cross; and a pencil on which appeared the ten commandments. Some gifts were stamped with the year of the class, "1943." Each stocking had its place on a line, from which the students were privileged to take them.

Two lighted Christmas trees formed part of the decoration.

At eight the group adjourned to the church auditorium for a worship service. The message was brought by the Rev. George G. Dilworth, secretary of the American Bible Society and a leader of youth activities of the Methodist Church. Mr. Dilworth told his youthful audience that each had a halo composed of his hopes, dreams, ambitions and aspirations. He showed them the ways in which such halos become dim and are lost, and urged them through the development of their spiritual natures, by vital Christian life and faith, to make their halos brighter as the years come and go.

At the conclusion of the message each member of the class wrote a letter to himself expressing his plan and purpose of life. The letters were sealed in self addressed envelopes, and will be mailed to the writers by the Rev. Sargis during the summer vacation of 1941, to remind them of their hopes and plans. The letters were received as the offering.

Attached to each program, on which appeared a likeness of the late Mr. Faust, was a Bible reading record. In the printed program was included a portion of an article written by the deceased superintendent of Bensalem schools, for an issue of the "Bensalemite." The article was entitled "How the Bensalem Township high school can contribute to national defense."

Before the close of the service all stood in silent respect to the memory of Mr. Faust.

Farms May Supply Materials For Autos

trialist. He declared that scientific research is responsible for more improvement in living conditions in the United States than any other one thing.

He explained that agriculture is becoming more closely associated with industry through the conversion of farm products into manufactured articles. It was at this point he predicted the time may come when the farm will supply material for the making of automobiles, airplane wings and building supplies.

"Few people," said Mr. Livingston, "realize the vast quantity of materials coming from the farm now being used by industry. The industrial use of agricultural raw materials, or the chemurgic, is still in its infancy. Each new use for an agricultural product is the result of a research effort, and the speed with which new products are brought into being is in direct proportion to the expenditure of funds along research lines."

Continuing, Mr. Livingston said in part: "The present high state of efficiency of American farming is due almost entirely to research efforts. Ninety-five percent of the funds spent on agricultural research have been spent to increase production and only five percent of these research funds have been spent to discover new uses for agricultural products."

During his address Mr. Livingston exhibited a variety of new products recently developed through scientific research. He explained that such articles are having an important bearing on American present day economy. Granges represented at the meeting which featured the rendition of special music, included Tyro Hall, Plumsteadville, Pineville, Edgewood, Middletown and Chalfont.

The orchestra of Buckingham high school, under direction of Miss Myrtle Katze, supervisor of music in the schools, rendered Christmas music. The boys' quintet and trio and girls' quintet of Buckingham high school also gave instrumental numbers.

Morrisville Seniors Taking School Census

Faced with the necessity of closing or replacing the present two-room structure which has been declared unfit for further use, the board has announced that its decision will be determined largely by the findings of the census.

Parents have long complained the Capitol View School was unfit for further use. They said children caught colds easily because of drafty conditions and poor heating facilities. The school was built in 1914 and was intended only for temporary use.

Cost of a new two-room building would be about $20,000, and for a four-room structure about $30,000.

Because of defense spending, nothing in the way of WPA help can be expected now from the Federal Government.

The senior class members are making a house to house canvass in the section north from Osborne avenue.

the work done in the Production Department of the local Red Cross.

Thirty-eight women gave 135 hours of service in this department. "Outstanding work is recognized in the wonderful assistance given by Mrs. Welsh, of Swain street, and Mrs. Bonfrancisco, of Buckley street. Representatives of the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, two classes of the Emile Methodist Church, Bristol Presbyterian Guild, and two groups from Edgely, are responsible for the splendid output of 143 garments, which were sent to Southeastern Chapter headquarters for shipment to England," the report showed.

The Home Department reported 40½ hours of service spent in transportation of the sick to hospitals and in personal helpfulness by "our Home Chairman."

Mrs. Marie Holland, executive secretary, reported 74 persons under the care of Red Cross in Bristol. Thirty kits for British women have been sent by the local members. Twenty of these very useful articles were the gifts of two members who decided their usual Christmas presents, should go this year, to the women who will experience very little of their usual Yuletide happiness.

Mrs. Frank Lehman, Red Cross chairman of roll call, reported a most successful canvass. "The Board is exceedingly appreciative of both Mrs. Lehman's and the workers' efforts in behalf of the recent Roll Call," it was stated.

"The Rev. James R. Galley and his committee are to be congratulated upon their fine effort in their approach to the various organizations for special gifts to Red Cross," continues the report.

Mrs. Wallin, chairman of Christmas Cheer for Bristol, gave a report of the splendid co-operation of several religious and fraternal bodies desiring to help in spreading the Christmas spirit. There being no further business the meeting adjourned until the third Monday of January, 1941.

Mother, Sons Reunited; Separated 35 Years

The story is a long one, covering a third of a century, filled with many a heartache for the mother. And for a time she knew nothing of the whereabouts of her three other sons.

The story starts in the Spring of 1905 in Passaic, N. J. Mrs. Rinkima, the family states, found it necessary to earn a livelihood for her young brood. The oldest daughter, Jennie, was married to Richard Bonema, and was living at the time in Clifton, N. J. The five boys, Louis, George, Charles, John and Frank, ranging in age from 12 to two years respectively, were left in the care of their older sister, Rose, while the mother was at work. When the mother returned home one evening she found the house empty. When Rose returned, having absented herself a short time, she could not throw any light on the mystery. Frantically, searches and inquiries were made, but no one knew what had become of the five boys. Filled with terror Mrs. Rinkima continued her search, but was handicapped by lack of knowledge of English. Some time later it was learned that the five boys had been taken by some authorities to a state home at Trenton, N. J. Eventually Charles escaped, and returned to his mother's home. There he hid one day when officials searched for him. Louis, who had been taken ill in the meantime, had returned home and died. Still later John left the home and went to the Bonema home in Clifton to reside. But the other two, George and Frank, aged about eight and two years when taken from their home, were nowhere to be found. Frantic efforts were made by Mrs. Rinkima and her daughter to locate the other two boys, but were able to receive no information. From George a part of the story is pieced together. It appears that he was sent to a farm in Maryland, in care of a family there, where he remained for many years. Frank, the baby, was so small when taken from his home and when placed with another family, that he never knew until a few weeks ago that he had relatives living. He was under the impression that his parents were both killed in an automobile accident. He was living in Laurel, Del., under the name of Frank Benson, having been adopted by a family of that name. In fact, he did not know he had a brother living but a few miles from him.

With some recollection of life at the Trenton state home, George had for several years toyed with the hope that he might find his brothers somewhere. Paying a visit to the home in Trenton several weeks ago he was given the name of Bonema, and a Garfield address, after records were searched, this name evidently being inscribed on the records in connection with the case of some of the boys. He also secured the name and address of the family which adopted Frank. George immediately wrote to the Bonema family at the Garfield address, but they having moved to this borough, the letter carrier delivered the letter to another family of that name, who happened to be related to the Bonemas here. The one to whom the letter was handed was just about to return it to the carrier, when on turning the envelope over, she saw the name "George Rinkima" on the back. Started at possibility of finding the lad who had been missing for 35 years, the recipient volunteered to deliver the letter to South Langhorne, which she forthwith did. It was just two weeks ago that the letter reached Mrs. Bonema here, and overjoyed she established contact with her long-lost brother.

Frank, shocked to learn he had a number of brothers, a sister and mother waiting to claim him, visited George, whom he did not know existed until that time. George resided in a nearby town, in Maryland, is married and has six children.

The reunion was planned, with 25 gathered at the Bonema residence here, and Mrs. Rinkima, now aged and gray, was able to embrace her two sons whom she had given up for lost. Again the mother had all of her children, yet living, about her. John, who is married and the father of three children, lives in Passaic, N. J.; and Charles, also married and having three children, lives in the same city. Rose, the younger daughter, and Louis are both deceased.

For Mrs. Rinkima, who found that instead of having 14 grandchildren she had 20, it was the happiest day of her life. She has for a number of years been caring for a woman 11 years her senior.

From Dr. Elien C. Potter, director of medicine, State of New Jersey, Department of Institutions and Agencies, came a letter addressed to Mrs. Bonema last week. In it Dr. Potter asked information as to what agency removed the five children from their mother's home in 1905. Dr. Potter further stated that "In the old days no careful records were kept, and many children have been lost to their own parents and brothers and sisters."
